GRATEFUL FOR YOUTH TOUR: THE ANNUAL TRIP OF A LIFETIME

grate·ful feeling or showing appreciation

BY SHELLY YORK

In the weeks leading up to Youth Tour, there is always a flurry of activity. Our heads are spinning as we are busy nailing down all the last-minute details, including making sure we have the right supplies, communicating with students and parents, and confirming (and reconfirming!) the many tour stops and meals.

Now that the annual trip is behind us, and there is time to reflect on Youth Tour 2024, I am simply grateful. For what, you might ask? I'm grateful for so many things, including:

- The electric cooperatives that sponsor these young leaders on this trip of a lifetime. It's an investment in rural lowa that will pay dividends well into the future.
- The students who take a leap of faith to apply for and go on Youth Tour. When the students show up for orientation, there is a lot of nervous energy, but that soon dissipates, and we become a family of sorts that can easily navigate a large city and airports with ease.
- The small army of people at the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association who work behind the scenes to make Youth Tour something these young delegates will never forget.
- Parents that trust us with their kids for the week. We don't take your faith in us lightly!
- The cooperative business model that we were able to put into action during Youth Tour by running our very own Snack Cooperative. Our co-op sold reasonably priced snacks to its members (the lowa students

- on Youth Tour). The members elected a board of directors. and the directors hired a co-op CEO/manager. The board and CEO met every morning over breakfast to discuss and plan activities related to the co-op.
- Our nation's capital, Washington, D.C. Where else can we see the Changing of the Guard, our first President's home, the location where Abraham Lincoln was assassinated, meet with our elected officials, visit more than a dozen monuments. memorials and museums, and then go paddle boating in the Tidal Basin, surrounded by the Thomas Jefferson and Martin Luther King, Jr. memorials?

Our chaperones who are truly top-notch! They leave their work and families behind for a week and focus on giving our Youth Tour delegates the best experience possible.

As we look forward to 2025, we are excited to meet the next class of Youth Tour delegates. If you know any high school students who are passionate about government and public service, please encourage them to apply! Until then, search for Iowa Youth Tour on Facebook or Instagram to see the group's adventures from 2024 or visit www.iowayouthtour.com.

GETTING READY FOR BACK-TO-SCHOOL SEASON

BY TROY AMOSS

August is upon us, which means one thing - it's time to get the kids back to school. There's a certain excitement in the air as parents hustle to get supplies and kids gear up for another year of learning. Here at Chariton Valley Electric Cooperative (CVEC), we understand how important this time of year is, and we're here to keep things running smoothly.

Education is the backbone of our community, and we're proud to power schools, homes and everything in between. From lighting up classrooms to keeping home computers running, we're committed to providing reliable electricity so our young generation of members can focus on their studies.

Supporting educational programs

But we don't just stop at keeping the lights on. We're dedicated to supporting education in other ways, too. We offer scholarships and programs to help our local students get ahead. Whether through hands-on learning initiatives or youth programs, we're here to give the next generation the tools they need to succeed.

As you prepare for the new school year, take a look at the resources we offer. Whether you're a parent, student or teacher, we've got something for you. We're here to lend a helping hand wherever we can.

Tips to make the most of the season

And while we're talking about getting ready, let's not forget about energy efficiency. With everyone getting back into the swing of things, it's easy to overlook simple ways to save energy.

Turning off lights when you're not using them, unplugging devices and using energy-efficient appliances can all make a big difference. We have plenty of tips and programs to help you save energy and lower your bills. Check out our website for more details.

CVEC wishes you a great start to the new school year!

LOCAL STUDENTS REPRESENT CVEC ON NATIONAL YOUTH TOUR

Brenna Whitney from Moravia High School and Ethan Stalzer from Albia High School recently participated in the national electric cooperative Youth Tour of Washington, D.C., sponsored by Chariton Valley Electric Cooperative's (CVEC) membership. They joined 34 other student leaders from Iowa on this mid-June trip.

This weeklong leadership development program offers high school students the chance to learn firsthand about government, the electric cooperative business model and current issues in the energy industry. Students met their elected representatives in the U.S. House and Senate, toured historic sites and even managed their own snack cooperative.

For 65 years, the electric cooperative Youth Tour has been a collaborative effort involving locally owned electric cooperatives like CVEC, statewide trade associations and the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association (NRECA).

In addition to sightseeing in the nation's capital, all state groups gathered for the Rural Electric Youth Day sponsored by NRECA. They learned from public figures and inspirational speakers, including Mike Schlappi, a four-time Paralympic Medalist and two-time World Wheelchair Basketball Champion. Schlappi delivered an inspiring message: "Just because you can't stand up, doesn't mean you can't stand out."

Since 1958, Iowa's electric cooperatives have sponsored high school students on the Youth Tour, offering visits with U.S. congressional delegations, energy and grassroots government education sessions, and tours of Washington, D.C.

YOUTH LEADERS VISIT NATION'S CAPITAL

This trip was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity in which I made new friends and so many memories. We learned so much about electric cooperatives and saw so many sights. This was such a great opportunity, and I would do it again 1,000 times over if I could!

Brenna Whitney Chariton Valley Electric Cooperative, Inc.

My Youth Tour experience was beyond amazing. Getting to experience fully our nation's capital was not only educational and exciting, but also transformational to help me better realize all my future goals and aspirations. I couldn't have asked for a better time with so many awesome people!

> Lucas Obert Guthrie County REC

Going on the Youth Tour was a highlight of my summer. Seeing all the monuments, and the incredible sacrifices of many Americans that made our nation how great it is today, was an amazing experience. One of the best parts was meeting people from all over lowa, and the country, making friendships that will last a lifetime.

Ellie Schmitz

It was the longest days and fastest week, and all I want to do is put the trip on repeat until it no longer feels like a dream.

Laying the wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier was an honor. I was so glad that I could pay my respects to those who gave the ultimate sacrifice for the sake of our freedom.

MARK YOUR CALENDAR!

2025 Youth Tour June 15-21, 2025 www.iowayouthtour.com

Iowa's locally owned electric cooperatives have been sending high school students to Washington, D.C., nearly every June since 1958! This year, 36 high school students and six chaperones representing Iowa's electric cooperatives journeyed to the nation's capital in June for the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association's 2024 National Electric Youth Tour.

On the weeklong tour, students learned about electric cooperatives, American history and U.S. government and walked away with a greater understanding of their role as an American citizen. They participated in National Youth Day, visited with their elected legislators and explored the sights around the nation's capital.

Earlier in the year, students applied for the trip through their local electric cooperatives. The lowa students joined students from co-ops around the country for the national Youth Tour.

A GUIDE TO ELECTRIC VEHICLE OWNERSHIP

BY JENNAH DENNEY

The automotive industry is undergoing a transformative shift as many consumers are switching to electric vehicles (EVs). EVs offer numerous benefits, from environmental sustainability to cost savings.

Transitioning to an EV requires careful consideration of multiple factors. The following list overviews key aspects of EV ownership and can help you make an informed decision based on your specific needs.

EV knowledge: Familiarize yourself with EV basics. Understand the differences between Battery Electric Vehicles (BEV), Plug-in Hybrid Electric Vehicles (PHEV) and Fuel Cell Electric Vehicles (FCEV). Consider your daily, monthly and annual driving needs and evaluate each option.

Driving range: Evaluate the EV's driving range when fully charged to ensure it aligns with your daily commute. We often think about a summer road trip for our driving needs, but it's important to remember there are other options for infrequent, long-distance travel.

Home charging: Determine if you will need to install a Level 2 charger and if your home's electrical system is compatible. By evaluating your entire home energy use, you can determine if electrical panel upgrades are necessary for a Level 2 system. Level 1 chargers typically do not require upgrades.

Public charging options: Research the availability of public charging stations along your typical routes.

Cost comparisons: Compare EV prices from multiple dealerships. Sticker prices are higher upfront, but EVs have proven cost-effective due to reduced maintenance and fuel costs.

Financial incentives: Explore federal. state and local incentives available for EV purchases. Check with your electric co-op to see if they offer incentives or special rates for EVs.

Maintenance: EVs typically require less maintenance than conventional vehicles. which can lead to long-term savings. EVs have far fewer moving parts than combustion engine vehicles, resulting in a streamlined maintenance experience.

Battery warranty: Ensure the EV battery includes a substantial warranty. Most manufacturers offer eight-year warranties (or up to 100,000 miles). If you're considering managed charging or bi-directional power flow (V2X) programs, take these warranties into account, V2X programs facilitate a bi-directional power flow between EVs and the power grid, which is highly beneficial for co-op members who own an EV. These programs allow EV owners to sell power back to the grid during periods of high electricity demand. Participation in these programs may impact your vehicle's warranty, so it's recommended to consult the warranty documentation before participating in a V2X program.

Insurance implications: Consult with your insurance provider to review potential changes to your policy when owning an EV.

Fees: Some EVs are subject to additional fees to compensate for road tax revenue typically collected from gasoline taxes. Additionally, you may have to pay a higher vehicle registration fee for EVs and hybrid vehicles. It's important to be aware of these potential fees when considering the total cost of ownership for an EV.

If you're interested in an EV, contact your electric co-op. Some co-ops offer "ride and drive" events, home charging programs and more, allowing members to gain firsthand experience and determine if an EV is right for them.

EATING HUMBLE PIE

BY DARCY DOUGHERTY MAULSBY

Are there any pie lovers out there? For years, I wasn't one of them. Most of the pie I knew was mass-produced or made with gloppy, canned pie filling.

But then, one day (probably at an oldschool church supper), I had a little slice of heaven - apple pie with a lard crust with as much tantalizing flavor as the filling. That flaky crust provided the perfect vessel to hold those thick slices of fruit, accented with an ideal blend of spice and sugar. And oh my how that filling baked into the junction of the top and bottom crust created a chewy ribbon of extra delight!

And just like that - I had a revelation. "Ah ha! This is what pie lovers are talkin' about!"

That's been quite a few years ago, but I still remember that life-changing slice of apple pie. A church sermon this summer also got me thinking about life-changing lessons that stick with us, long after the actual event fades into history. It happened during the Father's Day service at a little 1860s-era country church at Twin Lakes Bible Camp in Calhoun County.

To share a story - or not?

A local farmer was the guest preacher that Sunday. He was talking about another type of pie (humble pie). He admitted he had doubts about telling the story he was about to share but decided to do it anyway.

This father of three sons recalled how he and his wife had set specific rules for their boys' cell phone usage when the kids were in high school. He even combed through the monthly phone bill now and then to make sure none of the kids were on their phones after curfew.

He wasn't pleased when he discovered that one of his sons appeared to be using his cell phone late at night when he wasn't allowed to be on the phone. So, he confronted the son about the infractions. The son said he didn't break the rules and wasn't on the phone then. The dad was having none of it, saying "The proof's right here in the phone bill!"

After some debate, where both sides stood their ground, the son finally said, "Well, if that's what the bill says, then that's what it is."

Only later did the dad discover that the time stamps on the phone bill were recorded for the Eastern time zone, not the Central time zone. The son was telling the truth that he wasn't on the phone when he shouldn't have been.

"That taught me a lesson about being humble," the farmer said that Sunday as he expounded on the importance of humility.

A surprising message sticks

It wasn't a message any of us expected to hear on Father's Day, and yet it has stuck with me all these weeks later. Why? It was a brilliant double-whammy in the best sense. It contained an element of surprise and a plot twist that I doubt anyone in the congregation could have predicted.

That's the power of true stories well told. They're authentic, not abstract. They paint a picture in your mind, so you're "seeing" the story unfold as your brain takes in the information. They're also "sticky" because a good story touches our emotions, imprinting itself into our memory.

That storyteller/guest preacher could have stated that true humility means staying teachable, regardless of how much you already know and he would have been right. But through the cell phone bill saga, you felt the father's anger, the son's frustration and the embarrassment of admitting you were wrong.

That reminds me – I should probably eat a little more humble pie now and then.
